This event, with its 1,200 registered participants, opens its doors to the citizens of Ancona, involving students and both academic and non-academic staff from our University, in a unique journey of discovering internationalization. Specifically, there will be two public moments:

- Flag Parade (April 3, 1:30 PM, departure: Monumento dei Caduti), the parade of internationalization, one of the highlights of the Erasmus Generation Meeting, symbolizing the strength and beauty of unity in diversity within the Erasmus Generation. Young Europeans will display their flags, represent their countries, but they will do so by creating an explosion of colors that tell stories, cultures, and friendships born from a shared experience: Erasmus. Each step of the parade will be a hymn to multiculturalism, brotherhood, and the meeting of peoples. You can join the young volunteers of ESN and celebrate internationalization with them.
- EXPO (April 4, 1:00 PM - 4:00 PM), the internationalization fair, where over 40 participating nations will promote mobility programs and the opportunities offered by higher education institutions in their countries. For the students of UNIVPM, the EXPO represents an extraordinary opportunity to discover numerous international mobility options, both for study and internships, and to connect with partners offering educational and professional experiences throughout Europe. Meanwhile, the UNIVPM academic and non-academic staff can attend the EXPO to meet new partners for future international collaborations.

The student community and staff of UNIVPM are officially invited by the ESN volunteers, the event organizers, to learn about the values of unity and multiculturalism that define their network. These days are an opportunity to explore endless European opportunities, find new international partners, and exchange valuable advice on how to navigate the Erasmus, academic, and professional worlds.

A unique chance to broaden your horizons, grow personally, and access an international future filled with experiences and opportunities.
